

Mazomanie's Midwest Microcars Museum 5 6 23

We started our journey at Gordon's Drive In in Mazomanie where several of the attendees had a lunch of hamburgers and onion rings and a beverage. Then we found our way to the Microcars Museum where we were amazed at the tiny cars that people actually drove. The Museum's curator described all the different types of vehicles, where they came from, and how she and her husband acquired them. Stan actually was able to get inside one of them! Still unable to fathom that people in other countries actually drive these tiny cars (and usually at high speeds!). After an hour there we began our 7-car driving excursion across the Southwest region zigging, zagging, squiggling, wriggling our way around the roads that our Miata's love to be on. Oh, we also observed the beginning of spring plants-swaying tulips, blooming dandelions, blossoming bushes and, budding trees. We also had noses sneezing! We were glad to have a pit stop at the railroad depot in Mount Horeb. Some of us went to The Cider Place there for libations. We piled back into our Miata's and drove another 37 miles to come back to the Dog House Bar in Mount Horeb for great bar food of pizza, grilled chicken, and other tempting entrees; and of course, the beverage of choice. Jim also didn't forget the requisite U-turns and even made a Y-turn!

Thanks Jim L for a fantastic ride today!
